

THE COVENT GARDEN LUNCH BREAK TOUR

COVENT GARDEN STATION – HIGH HOLBORN

Subtitled 'The High Heel tour', this one covers the most paintings with the least amount of walking. Visit some of Europe's most beautiful paintings hanging in one of London's prettiest areas, and if you're quick you might be able to fit in a quick drink before you head back to work.

Every Londoner knows that Covent Garden + summer = tourist hell. But the streets around Seven Dials are largely free from street performers, coach parties and middle-aged men in Bermuda shorts. This tour is worth doing as much for the shopping as the amazing paintings, and when you've had your fill of old masters, new designers and shoe shops, check out Canela on Earlam Street for a Portuguese custard tart, Food for Thought (Neal Street) for great veggie meals, or hit The Crown in Seven Dials for a good old fashioned pint.

Start Point: Covent Garden Station
